Foreword

The development of Management as a separate discipline is a relatively new phenomenon. Yet, with the pace and kind of developments taking place in all spheres - economy, industry, health, education and voluntary sector - applications of principals and practices of management have evolved new dimensions. In our era, numerous subject - specific management concepts and institutions are also coming to the fore. These include : Educational Management, IT Management, Health or Hospital Management, Hotel Management, and so on. Because of the new challenges it faces, researchers in various disciplines have concentrated their attention on parts of the subject of management. Thus, the study of management has broadened in scope with introduction of new perspectives in different fields of study.

Moral and social climate has created new challenges for management. To answer the challenges, people need intellectual training, creativeness and approaches with new ideas. Management Institutes create and foster an appropriate amicable environment for developing intellectual capital, critical thinking and innovative problem solving abilities of the learners.

Realising the potential of management as a tool for empowering people, several management institutes have come up. Management institutes provide training in various aspects of rural development which include vulnerable groups of rural people especially the poor, landless rural women. They are instrumental in training staff who make services available to the vulnerable groups. Being a training agency, the Institute avails the services of management institutes in strengthening its training efforts.

This directory will serve as a ready reckoner for researchers, students, teachers and readers who would like to access information on management institutions in the country. The directory has been arranged alphabetically for the use of readers.
